Clothes Show Live in association with Suzuki teams up with the every budding model's most wanted agency, Select Model Management and the UK's leading social shopping network OSOYOU.COM in search of the next Agness Deyn or Naomi Campbell as the search for the prestigious Face of Clothes Show Live 2012 begins.

Clothes Show Live in association with Suzuki today announces that this year's search for the Face Of Clothes Show Live has begun. The winner will be propelled into the limelight and feature on all advertising and marketing campaigns for Clothes Show Live 2012, the ultimate platform for any aspiring model.

As the largest and most prestigious fashion and beauty event in the UK, Clothes Show Live has gained a concrete reputation as the leading model-scouting destination in the UK and famed for scouting A-list stars including the likes of Erin O'Connor, Cat Deeley, Holly Willoughby and Vernon Kay. This year, Clothes Show Live has again partnered with Select Model Management, one of the most successful international modelling groups in the world and widely regarded as the number one agency in Britain and OSOYOU.COM, the UK's leading social shopping network, to find this year's winner. This year's search for a star is set to draw in thousands of young hopefuls to Birmingham's NEC from 2-7 December.

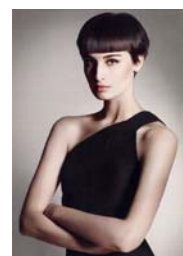

Today, OSOYOU.COM launches the dedicated online competition where visitors to the site will be invited to send in their photos and the most promising models will be picked by the editor, Jess Markwood and put forward to the public vote. The five winning models selected by visitors to the site will be sent to Clothes Show Live to meet the Select Model Management team and be in with the chance of becoming the Face Of Clothes Show Live 2012.

Cat Deeley

Holly Willoughby

Erin O'Connor

The winner will make it on to the hugely sought after Select books alongside some of the modelling world's biggest names including Stella Tennant, Agness Deyn, Eliza Cummings, The Saturdays, Eliza Doolittle and Pixie Lott. Their face will then appear across all Clothes Show Live advertising and marketing campaigns for 2012 and reach thousands of people from across the UK and beyond, providing them with a fantastic profile from which to start off their modelling career.

Last year's competition was awarded to Manchester's Mel Titmuss whose fresh and stunning look captured the eye of the judging panel and went on to shoot for various magazines and brands. However, standards were extremely high and for the first time ever a runner-up award was given to 15-year-old Amba Rehorn from Solihull who has since been signed to Select Model Management's New Faces division and has also appeared in the advertising and marketing campaign for Clothes Show 2011. Since being spotted at the show Amba has already shot a campaign for WAM hair.

There is no other place in the UK where visitors to the show will be given the opportunity to achieve national and international success as a successful model. The Face Of Clothes Show Live is back.
